 Travel U.S. Route 395 through aspen groves climbing into steep canyons that drop from the Pacific Crest to the edge of the Great Basin Desert. In contrast to the reds of fall in New England, the yellows of the Sierra have a short Autumn season, imping from north to south and from higher to lower altitudes, influenced by rain, wind, and temperature. Each year these scenes of flaming color framed by rugged mountain peaks can be spectacular.
 No CA sales tax.
